GENERAL M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—General Douglas MacArthur sent fighter planes swarming down the Buna-Kokoda trail in New Guinea yesterday, pouring more than 34,000 rounds of ammunition into the Japanese and their war installations in a growing aerial offensive in the southwest Pacific.

MacArthur's fighters and bombers, in a series of attacks over New Guinea, New Britain and the northern tip of the Solomons, carried out the most extensive sweeps since the start of warfare on New Guinea, today's communique indicated.

Roaring up and down the track between Buna and Kokoda over which the Japanese supply their forces in the Owen Stanley mountains, the fighters set fire to fuel and ammunition dumps, a warehouse and huts used by the Japanese, the communique said. A bridge over the Kumusi river, bombed the day before, was again hit hard.

At the Buna end of the trail on the northeast coast of New Guinea, three motor launches and a barge were left in flames, an anti-aircraft position was riddled with bullets and silenced and Japanese ground troops suffered casualties, it was reported. Medium bombers followed up the attack last night.

At Kokoda the Allied fighters poured cannon and machine-gun fire into Japanese positions, the communique said.

Ranging out over the Coral sea, bombers attacked the Japanese airdrome at Buka, on the northern tip of the Solomon islands, and returning airmen said they could see the fires from a distance of 50 miles.

Other bombers visited the Japanese stronghold of Rabaul on New Britain, flying through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire to attack the harbor.

A navy communique in Washington meanwhile disclosed that navy and marine dive-bombers hit and damaged a Japanese cruiser

N. Y. Checks Up on Confusion In Air Raid 'Alert' Call

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Confusion in air raid signals was being investigated by defense authorities today following an "alert" last night in the metropolitan area.

The eastern defense command issued a blue alert at 8:57 p. m. after an unidentified plane had been sighted "over the seaward area." The all clear came at 9:31 p. m.

The blue warning is one step away from the red signal which calls for a full-fledged blackout. It is usually preceded by a yellow signal but the preliminary "yellow" was omitted last night.

First news millions of New Yorkers received concerning the warning was silencing of their radios at 9:30 p. m. seven minutes before the blue signal was ordered. All local radio stations and some as far north as Albany were ordered from the air.

Raid sirens wailed on the east side of Manhattan although they are not supposed to be sounded

Hout Named To Head War Chest Drive

Bond Chairman Directs Campaign Scheduled To Open Nov. 9.

Fred B Hout was named today as campaign chairman for the $140,377 drive to be conducted in Mansfield and Richland county this fall by the combined Community Fund and War Crest organization.

The chairmanship was announced by Henry G Brunner, head of the War Chest organization, along with the opening date for the drive scheduled for Monday, Nov. 9

In accepting the appointment Hout goes from the head of one major county campaign to another. He is now serving as chairman of the September war bond drive that promises to beat its goal of $587,000 when it closes one week from today.

At 32, Hout is the youngest chairman to handle a major drive for funds in the city and the approaching campaign will call for direct contributions from both county and city.

Combined to eliminate all other county war relief drives, exclusive of the Red Cross, the Community Fund and War Chest campaign seeks a budget of $65,020 for the Community Fund and a budget of $75,357 to cover the 11 war relief agencies included in the War Chest.

The war chest agencies include six that are new to the county this year. They are the Queen Wilhelmina Relief for the Dutch, Polish War Relief, Russian War Relief, War Prisoners Aid committee, American Social Hygiene association and the National Y. W. C. A. War Relief Fund. The others include the British War Relief, United China Relief, National U.S.O, Greek War Relief and Richland Victory Civic committee.

Hout, who is a native of Mansfield, is associated with Westinghouse as publicity manager. He is an alumnus of Ohio Wesleyan university and lives at 582 Andover road.

At year-around publicity chairman for the Mansfield Community Fund, J Gilbert Baird, will head the publicity committee for the War Chest campaign. Personnel of the committee will be appointed before Thursday when a meeting of the group will be held at 7.30 p. m. in the Community Fund office to discuss plans for the campaign.

POSTPONE TALKS

CIO-AFL Delay Discussions of Peace Until November.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— National CIO headquarters today revealed that negotiations for a CIO-AFL "peace," long-proposed and much-urged now that labor battles may affect war production, have been postponed again until "sometime in the middle or late November."

Originally scheduled for August or early September, the negotiations have, thus far, consisted principally of informal telephone conversations between CIO President Philip Murray and Harry Bates, president of the bricklayers' union and chairman of the AFL peace committee.

Bates and Murray yesterday agreed, it was stated, to start full-scale, conclusive negotiations as soon as the CIO ends its week-long national convention, scheduled to start in Boston Nov. 9.

Warns Council Health Hazard Existing on Raleigh Avenue

When city council members met last night in special session to authorize changes in paving specifications for East Raleigh avenue, they were confronted with a communication from Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, warning that the sewage system serving homes on that thoroughfare is inadequate.

Citing that several septic tank arrangements are not functioning properly, thus causing accumulations of septic sewage in basements of homes, while others are draining onto the surface of Mansfield cemetery, Commissioner Wild presented this ultimatum.

"These are definite hazards to public health and, as such, must be abated." Wild suggests that "the only completely satisfactory solution is adequate and properly constructed sewerage facilities." Residents of the east end of the avenue report that due to the terrain and the construction of the present sewer, which, it is said, was laid by private parties, the waste matter cannot reach the main line on South Main street.

City Engineer W. C. Statler suggested creation of a sanitary sewer district in that area, explaining that re-arrangement of present systems in that neighborhood would entail prohibitive costs. He recommended installation of a pump or ejector to meet the emergency. The matter was

4,796 Tons of Scrap Needed From County to Equal Record

Richland countians must contribute 3.796 tons of scrap to equal the record of Nebraskans who recently set a goal for the nation by collecting 104 pounds for every person in the state.

With that record in mind, the Richland county salvage committee, headed by Carl L. Stough, had opened a campaign today to enlist the help of service clubs, schools, automobile dealers, farmers, filling station operators, and workers in every walk of life in an effort to round up every pound of old metal rubber, rags, burlap, and paper available.

Figures showing the county's scrap collection since last winter were not available today, but a recent drive extending over a month produced less than 400 tons of materials in Mansfield and Richland county.

Nebraska collected its record amount in only three weeks of hard work. Contests were used to inspire competition among counties and cities—everyone became interested in finding and contributing scrap.

Chairman Stough of the Richland county committee said "round-up" figures on all scrap collecting in the county since last spring through various agencies probably would give a much better picture of the effort here than the last month's total.

He emphasized, however, that many parts of the county, particularly the rural districts, still could contribute many more tons of old metal needed to manufacture tanks, guns, ships, and planes to defeat the Axis.

Receipts from scrap donated to the county salvage committee go into a fund for Christmas gifts for the county's servicemen and for going-away parties for inductees. Last week's collections added $88 to the fund, Stough said today.

Containers at filling stations in Mansfield were beginning to fill up today with scrap. Trucks will make their rounds again Friday in the city to collect materials if the county civilan defense office is notified of the place where it can be picked up.

BODIES FOUND

Youth Sought in Slaying of St. Louis Attorney and Wife.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. —(UP)— Police examined an axe, a torn piece of canvas, a car and two battered bodies today for clues to the murder of a St. Louis government attorney and his wife.

The victims were Charles A. Nash, 59, and his wife, 49, whose bodies were found last night in their automobile eight miles north of Springfield.

Paul Edwards, of Williamsville, Ill., a salesman curiously investigating a car which had stood beside a road for 12 hours, set police off on the inquiry which led to the discovery of the bodies. Nash's body was found in the trunk of the car two hours after his wife's had been discovered on the floor between the front and back seats.

FARM BLOC IN STIFF PUSH TO RAISE PARITY

Senate Leaders Make Hasty Check of Votes as Drive Gains Headway.

FDR AGAINST MOVE

Rural State Lawmakers Want Cost of Labor Figured In New Ceilings.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Openly confident of victory, congressional farm bloc forces today pressed their drive to write higher farm parity ceilings into the anti-inflation bill, a move toward which President Roosevelt has expressed "unalterable opposition."

Administration leaders in the senate, apparently taken aback by yesterday's surge of support for the parity change, made a hasty overnight canvass for votes.

Farm state lawmakers want the increased cost of hired farm labor taken into account in computing parity prices. This is not done under present law. The pending bill provides that farm price ceilings may not be set lower than full parity, or the highest price between Jan. 1 and Sept. 15 this year, whichever is higher.

(Parity level is a level calculated to give farmers the same ratio between the prices of the things they sell and those they buy as prevailed in a favorable past period, in most cases 1909-14.)

"We're going to pass this amendment 2 to 1," predicted Chairman Smith (D. S. C.) of the senate agriculture committee. He added he thought the vote would come today.

A similar amendment was being prepared on the house side by Chairman Fulmer (D, S. C.) of the house agriculture committee.

"The prospect of the passage of this very fair amendment looks extremely good," Fulmer said

Glum but not despairing, the president's leaders in the senate were ready to present their side of the argument today. They were ready to cite Mr. Roosevelt's letter of last Thursday to the chairmen of the senate and house banking committees, in which he wrote:

"I should like to make clear my unalterable opposition to any recomputation of parity at this time. In my message of September 7, I stated, 'In computing parity, we should continue to use

HUNT 22 BODIES

Ojibway Indians Seek Victims of Launch Sinking.

MIDLAND, Ont —(INS)— Ojibway Indians searched the weeds bounding Georgian bay today for the bodies of 22 of 25 men drowned Monday.

Rough waters kept authorities from dragging the bay near the Isle de Beausoleil where a 72-foot diesel-powered launch carrying 42 foundry workers employed by Bert Corbeau, one-time national hockey league figure, went down.

The body of Corbeau and two companions were found in a weed bed yesterday. Survivors said the launch had rocked violently from side to side when brought about suddenly but added that she had not turned over. They credited the sinking to open portholes which filled with water.

Russians Take Heavy Toll In See-Saw Battle

Give Up Several Stalingrad Streets But Beat Off Foe Elsewhere In City by Hand-to-Hand Fight; Tanks Bolster Hitler Bid.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Under terrific, coordinated attack of massed tanks and waves of divebombers, the Russians yielded several more streets in one section of Stalingrad today, but beat off the Germans in hand-to-hand battles elsewhere in the city where the invaders were said to have paid a toll of almost 6,000 men in three days for gains measured in yards.

Battlefront dispatches said Red army forces crossed the surging Volga under cover of darkness and fell upon one flank of the German penetration of the devastated city, driving them from their positions. An important road was reported recaptured in house-to-house fighting in another sector. Southwest of the city the Russians were said to have retaken a village.

Pravda said the sky over the city was a cloud-flecked battlefield with the Nazis making more than 1,000 bombing flights in a single day against reinforced Soviet fighter plane defenses.

Tanks brought up to bolster Hitler's desperate bid for a September victory were reported attacking in massed hundreds

In a single sector attacking infantrymen were reported led by more than 100 tanks—perhaps the greatest armored shock force ever used in street fighting.

Recounting the price the Nazis paid for their limited gains, the Russian mid-day communique said more than 1,000 Germans were killed in fierce fighting northwest of the city, 400 more in the northern part of Stalingrad and two companies of perhaps 300 men wiped out elsewhere in the city area by Russian tanks.

The midnight communique said more than 3,000 Germans had been killed or wounded in the preceding two days northwest of the city alone, with 300 slain in another single salient and a battalion of about 600 men wiped out south of the city.

The army newspaper Red Star said street booths and even overturned automobiles were used as firing points. Hard fighting for intersections developed, with the Germans in some cases firing from buildings on one corner while Red army men blasted away from the opposite side of the street.

The 30th day of the siege brought fresh squadrons of divebombers into action, but field accounts said reinforced Russian fighters proved equal to the challenge.

Dispatches left no doubt that the street fighting exceeded anything previously of this kind in the war.

Soviet attacks northwest of the city assumed considerable strength and Red Star said the invaders had been hurled from a number of positions in that strategic area.

STRIKE DEEP IN AXIS TERRITORY

British Raid Three Vital Points 500 Miles Behind Front Line in Egypt.

CAIRO —(AP)— Daring British desert patrol raids 500 miles behind the Axis' Egyptian line on three vital enemy points—the big supply port of Bengasi, the nearby wasted airbase site of Barce and the outpost garrison at the Gialo oasis deep in the desert—were disclosed by the British command today.

Announcement of the most spectacular large-scale land raiding in the whole war on the Mediterranean front, in which the British said heavy blows were dealt the enemy, came only after the Italians yesterday had acknowledged a six-day battle at the Gialo oasis.

The disclosure of these rapid-fire land patrol operations showed that even the land-sea-air raid on Tobruk the night of Sept. 13 was only one phase of a series of sweeping incursions into enemy territory far west of the El Alamein line.

With United States and British air forces heavily bombing both Bengasi and Tobruk in diversion attacks, the desert raiders struck Bengasi on the same night, Sept. 13, that other forces were landed at Tobruk.

Although they began 10 days ago, the Bengasi-Barce raids were a tightly held secret until now, after the patrols have returned to their bases.

Gialo, a remote oasis about 235 miles due south of Bengasi and 500 miles southwest of the El Alamein-Qattara battle line in Egypt, was attacked on the night of Sept. 15.

Bengasi and Barce were attack-

Frost, Mercury Drop to 36 Starts Autumn Season Today

It was autumn today, and Mansfielders didn't have to look at the calendar to learn that the season of colored leaves and corn shocks has arrived.

With a moderately heavy frost reported this morning in sections of the county, the mercury registered 36 degrees, one below the Monday reading and the lowest since last spring.

Warmer weather and probable showers were forecast for tonight by the weatherman. The 30.5 degree average reported for the past 24 hours was nearly 13 degrees below the normal for the date.

Although it may have seemed unusally cool, the summer season that bowed out last night was just a little warmer than average. Official weather recordings for the months of June, July, and August showed an average temperature of 70.8 degrees this year as compared with a normal 70.1.

The lowest reading of the summer was 37 last Monday and the highest was 96, recorded on July 17 and 18. While no average temperature reading is available for September, the month is expected to boost the average for the entire summer for the first two weeks of the month were considerably warmer than average.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Alfred Hitchcock, a director who knows a few tricks, has pulled an old movie stunt out of the bag and brought home a production which can smile condescendingly at $5,000 limitations on set costs.

Coons

Mr. Hitchcock, who needed a town, simply picked one and moved in on it. From the reports, he and his cast and crew were very welcome They spent four weeks in the town they picked as a typically American small town, and now they're back at Universal winding up the film with interior shots. Santa Rosa, Calif., 15,000 population, turned out the welcome mat and will play itself—with screen credit—in Hitchcock's "Shadow of a Doubt."

THIS was just like the old days when Hollywood's streets were the movie budgeteer's best friend and no producer dreamed of spending good money for a set if he could borrow or purloin one for free. Those were the days when a movie company, keeping a look-out posted on a desirable residence, set up its cameras as soon as the family left in the morning, shot all day, and vacated before the six o'clock whistle brought the occupants trooping home.

A bit of business formality entered the practice in later years. Somebody with an ethic decided that private homes, if used for movie purposes, should be rented, and later there came "location bureaus" which undertook to make such properties available to the camera at a fee—for charity.

Hitchcock did it on a grand scale to match his own heroic girth. Santa Rosa's beautiful courthouse and park, streets in the central business section, buildings of the American Trust and Bank of America, the telegraph office, the Till-Two cocktail bar, the city library, the Methodist Episcopal church, South, the railway station, the residence of Dr. C. M. Carlson and three blocks of tree-shaded McDonald avenues gave him ready-made sets.

IF YOU can imagine what would happen if Thornton Wilder ("Our Town") got together with Hitchcock on a story, that's what happens in "Shadow of a Doubt."

It's "Our Town" — but up to date—overladen with Hitch's oft-repeated cinematic premise: the most intriguing murderers are those who look—and could be—innocent.

The heroine, Teresa Wright, has an idol in her Uncle Charlie whom she has never seen. Uncle Charlie comes to Santa Rosa, distributing largesse, and inspires a complete change in the home life of Teresa, who has despaired of her slovenly mamma, Patricia Collinge, and her ambitionless papa, Henry Travers. When Uncle Charlie arrives, Santa Rosa also welcomes a couple of gents from the F.B.I. but that's mere coincidence for a reel or two—until Teresa discovers that Uncle Charlie has a bent for murder.

What makes this all "perfect Hitchcock" is that Uncle Charlie, homicidist, is played by good-looking, good-guy Joseph Cotton!

CALLS FOR NEW SYSTEM TO RULE U. S. MANPOWER

Senator Makes Demand as Wickard and Hershey Give Views on Farm Labor.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—As Secretary of Agriculture Wichard and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, were summoned before congress for testimony on the serious drain of farm labor, Sen. Ellison D. Smith (D) N. C., today demanded a complete new national manpower system to assure the nation enough men for military, industrial and farm armies.

At the same time, Sen. Claude Pepper (D) Fla., asked appointment of a committee of five senators to make an investigation of the manpower commission.

Wickard and Gen. Hershey were called before the house agriculture committee to answer questions on how the draft and the lure of high industrial wages are causing a shortage of farm help.

Smith, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, declared that "selective service is not doing the job," adding that it is not the fault of the men in charge, "but the fault of a system that is inadequae to our national needs."

"I have no hesitancy in predicting that we will lose one-third of our 1942 farm crop for lack of farm labor," Smith said. "That is a loss that will run into billions—not mere millions. It is almost criminal that in times when food is so sorely needed everywhere in the world that such a condition should exist."

Smith said he believed that high wages being paid in industry were more responsible by far than the draft for the shortage of farm labor.

"There is nothing left for us to do," Smith said, "but to revise the whole manpower set-up to get us out of the muddle.

"There should be a national manpower council established at once with power to create pools of men available for duty in three distinctly different types of armies—the field of combat army, the industrial army and the farm army."

Smith said he was hesitant about congress voting a draft of labor but asserted that it might become necessary soon, in order to avoid registration of women who, he held, should be "kept at home."

URGES TRAINING OF NEW WORKERS

Sees Physically Fit Deferred Men Taken by Army Soon.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—All physically fit men of draft age who have been granted deferments for occupational reasons "eventually will be withdrawn from industry" and war plants should begin training replacements now, the war manpower commission reported today.

Lowell O. Mellen, assistant district representative of the WMC training within industry section, said that on the basis of information sent to a California industrial group by Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, industies should start training programs now.

He said the difficulties of breaking in new employes would be "greatly decreased" if foremen, lead men and other supervisors were properly instructed in advance as to the training of women, the less physically fit and older men to replace men of draft age.

RESURFACING JOB RESUMED

Work on Streets Circling Central Park To Be Started Soon.

Resurfacing of streets around Central park is expected to start soon, the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company having resumed work on the city-state program for repaving portions of Route 42 in and near the city.

Operations were suspended shortly after Sept. 5 when water-main laying and utility extensions interfered. Drainage systems were worked on along the route of the project off of Park avenue east.

Yesterday, the paving company completed the first coat of black top on Park avenue to the square. Preliminary work will be necessary before laying the asphalt and, in the opinion of city officials, it will be several days before and re-routing of traffic around Central park will be required.

Completion of this job likely will be followed with work on Bartley avenue, Glen Beck lane and Glessner avenue. Paving of the first two thoroughfares was halted some weeks ago when the government froze all bituminous materials.

Quantities sufficient to carry these three projects to completion were released two weeks ago by federal authorities through the state highway department.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff and City Engineer W. C. Statler are hopeful that the jobs will be completed before freezing weather arrives.

SIX-HOUR DAY DISPUTE OVER

Rubber Workers Abandon Plan for Duration, Boost Production.

AKRON —(U.P.)— The six-hour day, a point of contention in many union-management disputes in the rubber industry, is out for the duration so far as the United Rubber Workers of America (CIO) are concerned.

The rubber workers at their seventh annual convention yesterday approved relaxation of the six-hour day without a dissenting vote among the 300 delegates. They pledged themselves to work "any number of hours to win the battle of production.

The convention called former CIO President John L. Lewis a "saboteur of the war effort" and newspaper Columnist Westbrook Pegler "an intellectual kept man of journalism" but voted down moves to denounce Lewis and Pegler.

AMNESIA VICTIM, HUSBAND SEEK HAPPINESS IN TRIAL MARRIAGE

(By Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD — Pretty Mrs. Gloria Weller Miller and the husband she says is a stranger to her after nearly five months of married life will try to find happiness in the bizarre situation into which fate has cast them.

By means of a trial marriage, they announced last night, they will attempt to form a permanent relationship out of what was to him a normal domestic life, but to her was merely a hiatus in her existence.

A psychiatrist yesterday predicted a complete recovery by Mrs. Miller from the amnesia which gripped her upon the death of her first husband, H. Pierce Weller, former Binghampton, N. Y., editor, and under the spell of which she said she married Henry Miller, a commercial photographer.

"I've decided to stay and give him a chance," said Mrs. Miller, 25, to interviewers, "we will live together a while to see how it works out. It will be sort of trial marriage."

"That's all right with me," Miller concurred. "I feel sure everything will work out fine. I'm willing to try it for a while."

Mrs. Miller's plight was disclosed Sunday when she appeared at Hollywood police station following her disappearance Friday. She told police she found herself driving on a North Hollywood street in a strange automobile. Miller meantime had reported her absence, and they were reunited. But when informed Miller was her husband she screamed and became hysterical.

She told police her last memory was of entering her Atascadero, Calif., home Nov. 1, 1941, and finding her first husband, Weller, dead in a chair.

She remembers clearly her life before that time.

TWO FINED

Ashland and Mansfield Drivers Arraigned in Court.

Isaac M. Workman, Ashland, was fined $50 and costs in municipal court yesterday on the charge of unsafe operation after his auto figured in a collision here Monday evening. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended $40 of the fine on condition Workman pay for damages to the car of Tony Sazdanoff, 491 Grant street.

Driving rights of Edward Ryder, 103 East First street, were revoked for one year and a fine of $50 and costs imposed on charges of driving while intoxicated. Ryder, according to police, rammed his auto into one driven by Forest Daugherty, 158 Poplar street, Monday night.

On his promise to leave the city, a man arrested by Patrolman Floyd Bowers on the charge of intoxication, won suspension of a fine.

ASK PAY BOOST

Cincinnati Employes Told They Have No Right To Strike.

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— Cincinnati city employes were warned today that they "have no right to strike" and that those who do walkout will be discharged.

Approximately 1,000 city employes, members of the United Construction Workers union, have threatened to take a strike vote at a special meeting tomorrow night unless the city hall will negotiate a union demand for a 25 per cent salary increase.

ASKS ELECTION LAW REVISION

One-Day, One-Purpose Session of Legislature Considered.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Governor Bricker, who has repeatedly refused Democratic demands for a special legislative session to distribute "surplus" state funds to local governments, today considered a request for a special session of the general assembly to facilitate voting by Ohio's men in the armed forces.

The request by Democratic Secretary of State John E. Sweeney for a "one-day-one-purpose session" for revision of state election laws presented a different problem. No partisan political considerations were apparent.

No review of the policies of the Republican state administration would be involved since the governor, should he call a session, may under the state constitution prescribe the business of the legislature within narrow limits and confine the assembly to consideration of the one question raised by the secretary of state.

Laff-a-Day

"It's a last resort! If THIS doesn't attract the navy, I give up!"

It would require an infantryman, in heavy marching order, six days to hike over Mansfeild's improved sidewalks. In the report of state examiners, giving a "clean bill of health" to the records of City Engineer W. C. Statler, it is set up that the city has 112.28 miles of sidewalk. Other figures show 73.8 miles of paved streets and alleys, 30.7 miles of storm sewers, 97.92 miles of sanitary sewers, 104.42 miles of water lines. A "full pack" soldier can be relied on to walk about 18 to 20 miles a day.

Owners of several cars parked on Park avenue east this morning probably thought they were stolen, but police knew all about where they were. Officers and highway workers struggled for a long time moving the cars by hand so a road crew could complete the resurfacing of the street east from Franklin avenue. Owners of most of the parked cars couldn't be found, so the automobiles were moved anyway to nearby parking lots and filling stations. In some cases, the brakes were set so the cars couldn't be pushed by hand, so wreckers pulled them away.

Another flying officer, now stationed in the wild bush country of New Guinea, has demonstrated the hard-hitting qualities of former Mansfielders—a Wide World News Service dispatch crediting Captain Arthur Hughes with 12 successful missions against Jap zeros and bombers. Captain Hughes graduated from Mansfield Senior high school while his father, Rev. Arthur Hughes, was pastor of First Presbyterian church here. The father now is pastor of the Ridgewood, N. J., church. Captain Hughes flies a plane he calls "Dumbo" and, when the dispatch was sent from the far Pacific, it had 12 miniature bombs tucked about its cockpit, each representing a downed Jap plane. He rode in six missions over Buna in as many days. "As long as Dumbo lasts," he told the Wide World scribe, "I and my crew will be in there hitting."

PLATFORM TO CARRY PARTY BID FOR POWER

Adopted at Extraordinary Session, Document Is Called 'Guide.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The Republican delegation in the house, holding that "no party, class or section has a corner on patriotism or ability," stood pledged today to fight for a decisive victory in the war, and to recognize this country's obligation" to help maintain peace through a world understanding and co-operative spirit.

A ten-point program of policies and principles—in effect, a platform to carry the party's bid for increased representation in congress after the fall elections—was adopted at an extraordinary conference of house Republicans last night.

It linked with its stand on war policy, one which opposed any attempts to negotiate peace, a demand for "full and immediate utilization by the president of the most capable and efficient military and civilian leadership."

The representatives declared that the "Republican party has given and will continue to give to the president loyal, wholehearted and patriotic support in the war."

That assurance was followed immediately by the assertion:

"The president should not permit himself to be deterred from the responsibility which is his by those forces and influences which persist in continuing so-called social and governmental reforms at the expense of the war effort."

Minority leader Martin of Massachusetts said the vote for adoption was "almost unanimous." The resolutions were drafted by a five member committee, composed of Representatives Hope of Arkansas, Wigglesworth of Massachusetts, Robsion of Kentucky, Dirksen of Illinois, and Carter of California.

Martin, who is also chairman of the Republican National committee, declined to discuss the purpose of the resolutions beyond saying they constituted a "guide" for house Republicans. Political observers, however, were quick to interpret the action as an apparent move to disassociate the party from the label of "Isolationism" with which many Democrats have sought to tag it.

Dealing most directly with foreign policy were the second and third sections, which read:

"We oppose any attempts to negotiate peace, or the consideration of any peace terms until our arms have won such a decisive victory that we, together with our Allies, are able to dictate the peace terms. Freedom is at stake. It permits no compromise or appeasement. the Axis dictators must be vanquished.

In detail, the minority group outlined its stand on domestic affairs, pledging a "constant and continued vigilance to eliminate waste and inefficiency."

Probe Explosion Of 2 Army Planes 15 Miles Apart

CARIBOU, Me. — (U.P.) — Army boards of inquiry today were investigating almost simultaneous explosions of two army bombers, flying 15 miles apart, which killed 14 men.

They crashed in flames in a backwoods district shortly after they had taken off from their base at Presque Isle yesterday. The first one caught fire over the Caribou-Presque Isle highway. It grazed the tree-tops, roared across the Aroostook river and dived to earth three miles away.

The crew was listed as Lieut. R. L. Drogula, pilot; Lieut. J. A. Crocker, co-pilot; and Sgts. W. H. Finch, Billy J. Hill, G. E. Simmons, L. A. Robinson and Joseph Martino.

The second plane crashed at Washburn, near Perham. Its crew included Lieut. F. F. Watson, pilot; Lieut. John W. Rives, co-pilot; and Sgts. J. F. Delano, J. A. King, E. J. Crozier, R. K. Riddle and F. W. Rowbottom

RUSSIANS SLAY 6,000 GERMANS IN THREE DAYS

Take Heavy Toll in See-Saw Battle Through Streets of Stalingrad.

The army publication reported the Russians had recaptured a village southwest of Stalingrad. In a battle for an important height, it said, the Germans lost 22 tanks and several thousand troops in two days.

"In the northern part of the city our troops destroyed six German tanks and 14 trucks and killed over 400 Germans," it was announced.

Over 1,000 Germans were killed in the repulse of a series of Nazi counter-attacks northwest of the city and "in another sector our troops pressed back the enemy and recaptured an important road," the communique said.

Save for the street penetrations, in a sector unannounced, all German thrusts against the Volga river industrial center were turned back, the Russians said.

Russia's army of the central Caucasus fought on against German tanks and automatic riflemen in the Mozdok area. The communique said eight German tanks were destroyed and more than 100 automatic riflemen killed in one vain attack.

Soviet artillery on the Leningrad front was credited with the destruction of 19 Nazi blockhouses, ten dugouts and two field guns during the past three days.

Soviet counter-attacks northwest of Stalingrad were declared to have cost the Germans about 3,000 casualties, 20 tanks, 45 trucks and various guns and supplies within 48 hours.

(Field Marshal Fedor von Bock, who has squandered blood and steel in the attack upon Stalingrad as he did in the vain offensive against Moscow last autumn, was reported in Stockholm to have been relieved of his command.

(A Reuters dispatch quoted the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet as saying Adolf Hitler dismissed Von Bock two weeks ago—for the second time in less than a year—as a result of a sharp disagreement over campaign strategy.

(Hitler was represented as backing the simultaneous drives upon Stalingrad and the Caucasus; Von Bock was said to have urged a concentration upon the Caucasus.

(Von Bock was idle for several weeks after Hitler assigned Field Marshal Siegmund Wilhelm List to the central (Moscow) front last December and himself took over supreme command of Germany's armed forces.)

Russian defenders of the Caucasus were reported to have increased their levy upon German manpower and materiel along both the Black sea coast and in the Mozdok area.

Two vain attacks upon Russian positions in the Mozdok area cost the Germans five tanks and about a company of tommy-gunners, the communique said.

Red marines who landed from the Black sea by night behind the Axis lines northwest of Novorossisk were said to have slain about 60 Rumanians trapped in a house and sunk an enemy motorboat, returning to their base without a loss.

Russian troops who recently seized the initiative in the Sinyavino sector of the Volkhov front northwest of Moscow were credited with beating off a powerful German counter-attack.

British Reach Edge Of Tananarive

LONDON—(UP)—British imperial forces reached the outskirts of Tananarive, capital of Madagascar, yesterday despite stiffening resistance by Vichy infantry and artillery, Lieut. Gen. Sir William Platt, commander in chief in East Africa, said today in a communique.

Platt reported that a British column advancing from the northwest encountered Vichy troops 15 miles outside Tananarive.

"Resistance was finally overcome and our troops carried their last objective, Mahisty Village," he said.

The British imperial forces advanced toward Tananarive from the east coast port and railroad center of Brickaville has encountered the usual road obstructions, Platt reported, but he said that nevertheless good progress had been made both on the road and the railroad.

Troops moving southward down the northwest coast of Madagascar contact at Antsohihy a column which had marched northward from Mapunga, Platt said, and thus the entire main road between Majunga, the west coast port, and Diego Suarez, the big naval base at the north end of Madagascar, was now in British hands.

SPURS DRIVE TO BOOST PARITY

Farm Bloc Acts in Spite of 'Unalterable' Opposition By President.

the computation of the bureau of agricultural economics made under the law as it stands today.' This will continue to be my policy."

The president said the parity principle had proven a good standard for peace time and was a good one for war.

The nub of the farm bloc arguments was that farmers are losing labor to the war plants, and that unless they are given higher prices for their products they will not be able to compete in the labor market and the nation may face a paralyzing food shortage.

The office of price administration estimated that under the new parity formula proposed by the farm bloc the cost of living would increase by $3,000,000,000 to $3,500,000,000, or a jump of 4 to 5 per cent in the index.

The announced purpose of the administration's anti-inflation bill is to effect a general stabilization of prices, wages and other factors in the cost of living, on the basis of Sept. 15 levels.

Under a committee amendment, the president could modify farm price ceilings to take into account increased labor costs. This provision was not strong enough to suit lawmakers from farm states; they demanded a specific recognition of the increased wages of farm help.

Both the house and senate bills propose establishment of a floor under farm prices at 90 per cent of parity, supported by government loans.

As for wages, the senate bill provides that no employer shall pay and no employe shall receive wages or salaries "in contravention of the regulations promulgated by the president." There is a further provision that except in cases of gross inequities, wages shall not be reduced below the highest level paid between Jan. 1 and Sept. 15 for any particular kind of work.

The wage section of the house bill, as reported by the banking committee, provides that "no employer shall pay, and no employe shall receive, any further increases or salaries unless approved by the president or such agency as he may designate," but it is inoperative "with respect to wages and salaries which have not reached a 15 per cent increased cost of living level above the wages or salaries paid on Jan. 1, 1941."

Opponents contend this proviso would result in mass salary increases.

BUCYRUS—Austin E. Wilson, North Sandusky avenue resident and employe of the Swan Rubber company, was fined $50 and costs on a charge of carrying concealed weapons when he was arraigned in Mayor William Whiteamire's court Tuesday.

Warns Council Health Hazard Existing on Raleigh Avenue

referred to the sewer committee.

Council approved a change in width of the paving for the avenue from 30 feet to 28 feet.

In a communication from the Mansfield Telephone company the city was asked to buy, for $1, five utility poles on East Second street, which carry only wires or cables of the police and fire alarm signal system.

The telephone company, the letter says, has removed all its service from the poles to underground conduits and cannot longer assume the liability involved if the rotting poles should topple. The issue was referred to the utilities committee.

Extension of the signal system in the vicinity of Park avenue east at Franklin avenue and Diamond street was authorized under an appropriation of $500.

Appropriation of $300 was voted to pay for weed cutting in certain sections of the city which, in turn, will be assessed against property owners wherever possible.

On the motion of George C. Kyle, member-at-large, the city engineer was instructed to establish grades on St. Clair street.

Council voted an additional $1,500 to cover costs of removing car rails from city streets for war munitions purposes. Statler explained that the original $800 outlay has been exhausted, that the total cost will approximate $2,250 while receipts from this source will be around $2,400, showing a slight net profit to the city.

Work of "mining" scrap metal at the city dump has been abandoned with the absorption of a $2,500 appropriation for the purpose. Thus far the city has realized around $1,500 from the venture which was undertaken at the request of the War Labor Board. Statler anticipates that the WPB will submit a new proposition soon which will insure the city against further loss if this project is resumed.

divisions embrace, rescue, medical aid, food, transportation, shelter, clothing and other emergency relief.

Arm brassards, identification cards and manuals explaining the functions of the committee as a whole and each sub-division will be presented to every member of the committee. The Staff Assistance corps will handle the distribution and the Women's Motor Corps will also be represented.

A special feature of the meeting will be the demonstration of an official American Red Cross mobile canteen that will be stationed all day Thursday in front of the Richland Trust building.

Inspection of the canteen from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. will be in charge of Mrs. W. B. Ford, Red Cross nutrition chairman for Richland county. Both the Staff Assistance and Women's Motor corps' will be stationed at the canteen to answer questions of visitors.

The mobile canteen is one of two units built by the Ohio Fuel Gas company to be used by the Red Cross to either supplement the cooking capacity of local units or possibly to be the sole source of cooking in case of utility failure through sabotage. The unit carries bottled gas systems and is not dependent on outside fuel supplies.

Cooking and eating utensils for 400 people are carried by the unit and it is estimated that 1,500 persons can be fed through the provisions made for continuous dishwashing. Attached to the trailer is a large tent which shelters the serving center as well as food receiving and clearance.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia admitted there was some confusion but said he was pleased with the alertness shown by city defense authorities.

The eastern defense command announcement explaining the alert said:

"Headquarters eastern defense command and 1st army announced at 9:43 p. m. receipts of a report from the 1st air force which stated that 'an unidentified airplane operating over the seaward area' caused a blue air-raid alert in northeastern New Jersey and Long Island from 8:57 p. m. to 9:31 p. m. 'The situation has been clarified,' the first air force reported. 'No hostile aircraft were in the vicinity'."

The alert was the second New York and the metropolitan area has experienced this month.

WHIPPING SUBS

Navy Reduces Sea Menace, Insurance Report Shows.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Signs that the navy is whipping the Atlantic submarine menace were seen today in a war shipping insurance report made by Rear Admiral Emory S. Land to the senate commerce committee.

The report covers the months of June and July, but carries the latest figures available. It shows that policies issued on ships in July ran more than $5,000,000 less than in June.

There were 88 policies issued in June for a total face value of $10,880,115, Land told Sen. Josiah Bailey (D) S. C., commerce committee chairman. In July, however, only 36 policies were issued. These were written for a total coverage of only $4,815,541. Premiums for July were only $13,737 against $38,799 in the previous months.

northwest of Guadalcanal, marine-held island in the Solomons, during an attack Sunday.

The ground fighting in the Owen Stanley range where Allied troops have checked a Japanese advance 32 miles from Port Moresby was not mentioned in the communique. A spokesman said this meant the general situation was unchanged.

Tokyo Claims Big Attacks On Aleutians

LONDON—(UP)—Tokyo radio claimed today that Japanese naval units had carried out attacks on two Aleutian islands midway between Dutch Harbor and Japanese-held Kiska on Aug. 31, in the course of which submarines had inflicted "irreparable damage" on a U. S. cruiser of the Northampton class.

The Japanese broadcasts, heard here by United Press, said the cruiser was hit by sumbarines raiding the principal port of Nazan Bay, on Atka island, 250 miles west of Dutch Harbor and 250 miles east of Kiska, the nearest point of Japanese occupation.

(The name of the second island purportedly attacked by Japanese naval forces was inaudible.

(Jane's fighting ships lists six 9,050-ton cruisers of the Northampton class.)

Radio Tokyo also claimed that Japanese torpedo boats in Aleutian waters had sunk two U. S. submarines in mid-September.

Rome radio, quoting Tokyo broadcasts, said that since Pearl Harbor the United States Navy had lost six battleships, seven aircraft carriers, 14 cruisers, eight destroyers, and two auxiliaries in Pacific waters.

U. S. Fliers Hit Japs 13 Times In 2 Weeks

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— American airmen have attacked Japanese bases in the Solomon Islands at least 13 times during the last fortnight, but reinforcements and supplies were believed today to be reaching enemy troops at Guadalcanal.

The air attacks have been designed to hamper enemy attempts to retake the islands captured last month by U. S. marines. The areas bombed include the most likely springboards for enemy counterattacks against Guadalcanal, the most important island in the group.

Rekata Bay on Santa Isabel island, one of the main Japanese positions in the Solomons, was bombed and strafed six times during the week of Sept. 13. Five of these times, army flying fortresses did the job while navy and marine corps dive bombers carried out the most recent attack.

Gizo island, which has an excellent deep water harbor about 215 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, has been attacked six times. Army flying fortresses also have blasted Buka, northwesternmost of the Solomons.

Meanwhile, there was evidence of increased activity on Guadalcanal, which the Japanese are eager to retake because of its airfield and which the American have used to good advantage.

The navy reported an increase in patrol activities on Guadalcanal Sunday after a few minor brushes with the enemy on Saturday. American positions remain intact, however, the navy added.

Naval experts here believe enemy forces on Guadalcanal are being reinforced by small boats and possibly destroyers. Most of the Japanese on the island were believed to be concentrated on the south side. American positions, including the airfield, are on the north side.

Jungles and high mountains, ranging between 1,500 and 8,000 feet, make contact between the two forces difficult.

The burden of the attack in the Solomons appeared to rest on American fliers, for the present. On Sunday, army and navy fliers using Douglas dive bombers scored hits on a Japanese cruiser raising to at least 23 the number of enemy ships sunk or damaged by American forces since Aug. 7. Then, they went on to attack shore installations on Rekata Bay, which is 180 miles northwest of Guadalcanal.

The total of enemy ships sunk or damaged does not include the two battleships on which "possible" hits were reported by the navy last Saturday.

Last Friday, the army's flying fortresses bombed Gizo island and bombed and machine-gunned facilities on Rekata bay.

STRIKE DEEP IN AXIS TERRITORY

British Raid Three Vital Points 500 Miles Behind Front Line in Egypt.

ed two nights before—the same night as the big commando raid on Tobruk, some 220 miles to the east of Bengasi.

The communique said the raiders—British desert patrols—have arrived back at their bases. It listed these accomplishments:

At Gialo—"considerable casualties" inflicted on the enemy garrison and dumps of ammunition and supplies destroyed by artillery fire.

At Bengasi and Barce—more than 30 aircraft damaged or destroyed on the ground and several others "shot down while attacking our troops;" heavy casualties inflicted on "enemy personnel and motor transport."

Britain's heavy bombers returned for a new air blow on Bengasi yesterday, the communique said, setting two ships afire with direct hits. Medium and light bombers, in a night attack on the El Daba region Sept. 21, it said, caused a large fire and explosion on an Axis airfield.

Except for artillery exchanges in the southern sector, however, there was little action aground or aloft in the main battle area of Egypt yesterday, the communique said. In the customary night patrolling during the preceding hours of darkness, it reported, British units harried enemy patrols and working parties and brought in a few prisoners.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1942.

This is the toughest war of all time. We need not leave it to historians of the future to answer the question whether we are tough enough to meet this unprecedented challenge. We can give that answer now. The answer is "Yes."—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Legion Favors Labor Placement

WHAT, if anything, is wrong with that idea of the American Legion, as expressed at its Kansas City convention, that there should be a national service act, applicable in wartime, under which ALL manpower could be drafted for specified work—military, industrial, agricultural or civilian—at specified pay and subject to government regulations?

This is an accepted principle in military service—in which compulsion is considered quite proper—but there is not the same agreement as to the "right" of government to dictate and regulate in other fields of wartime work.

But if some men are compelled to enter military service, undergo hardships and risk their lives, why should it not be made equally compulsory for others to do the work in shops and on farms that is just as necessary to winning the war?

The pay of men in the armed forces is fixed by government—why should there be any hesitancy in limiting the wartime pay of men who are engaged in tasks associated with providing war materials and supplies?

The rush to big-paying war jobs has drained farms and rural communities of labor that is greatly needed in producing food supplies that are as essential to victory as ships, tanks, planes and guns. Many young men have also been called from farms to military service.

Frank O. Lowden, agricultural authority and former governor of Illinois, warns: "Unless something is done to stop the draft of experienced farmers from the farms, I fear not only a food shortage but in all probability a food famine."

When the reality of an all-out war becomes better recognized such quibbling as is now going on in congress over relatively inconsequential matters will be stopped and action thereafter will be with a view to winning the war—not to appeasing blocs devoted to promoting selfish interests.

Social Security Rate Ample

ATTENTION is now being directed to the social security tax, which, unless the law is amended, will be doubled automatically the first of next year, going from 1 per cent to 2 per cent on each employe and each employer.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce takes the position that this increase is unnecessary and that the present 1 per cent will amply meet current requirements and provide adequate reserves.

Senator Vandenberg. of Michigan, takes the same position and says funds collected for social security are already 30 times more than required for a sound actuarial basis, and any increase would merely add to compulsory savings already contemplated.

The social security tax is a form of compulsory saving that has been in vogue for the past six years, and further enforced deductions from wage and salary income can be justified as a war measure, but the two should be kept separate and the public should be kept informed as to the purpose of each.

With necessarily heavy war taxes, bond purchases, and all the other legitimate demands being made on people nowadays, the state Chamber of Commerce should be supported in its effort to prevent needless increase of an already huge non-war fund.

Get Ready To Drive Slower

SOME motorists explain that as they are driving along, "not thinking," they are astonished to discover, when they look at the speedometer, that they are traveling at between 60 and 70 miles an hour.

Such lapses are likely to prove costly in the future, as the compulsory lower speed limit comes into vogue, and may bring demand for a gadget which can be set for any speed limit, with a warning sounded when that speed is passed.

The habit of driving faster than legal speed limits, on city streets and highways outside cities, has become common in Ohio, due to leniency of enforcement, and it will require close attention for awhile to keep within the 35-mile maximum prescribed in connection with the rubber conservation program.

Gradual tightening of enforcement in Mansfield, with arrests now being made for speed in excess of 40 miles an hour in 35-mile zones, should serve to remind thoughtless motorists that city streets are not intended to be used as speedways—AND THAT TIRES MUST BE CONSERVED.

Time To Plan Public Forum

WITH so many subjects of lively interest just now, and so much need for information and discussion, it may be hoped that some Mansfield civic groups will combine, as heretofore, in sponsoring a series of public forum meetings for the approaching fall and winter season.

Other Ohio cities are already taking action along this line and it is quite likely that some exceptional talent can be brought to Mansfield if early bookings are made.

Advantage in several club groups uniting in this activity is the possibility of making a larger fund available than any one of them would find it convenient to expend.

Part of the Cost of War

CRASH of an army plane is tragic in any circumstances, and there seem to be a good many such accidents lately. What is wrong? Nothing, perhaps, that calls for excitement or dismay. Unfortunate as these cases are, they must probably be accepted as part of the price of armament and victory.

It must be remembered that the American sky is full of planes, mostly aloft for training purposes, and that, while safety is sought, accidents are to be expected. The mishaps, however tragic in themselves, are part of the price that has to be paid for ultimate victory. And thus the men who fall to their death in these peaceful flights may serve a useful purpose. Every such tragedy is carefully studied, and lessons are learned that make flying safer for all others.

The question usually is: "How much does a congressman earn?"—when what is probably meant is "how much is he paid?"

A war stamp a day helps keep the Axis away.

COMING OUT FROM THE ANAESTHETIC

African Natives Post-War Status

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — What about post-war Africa?

It generally is agreed that the rest of the world will have to do a lot of reorganizing to get back upon a satisfactory peacetime basis. To say that it will need to reorganize to get back upon a satisfactory basis isn't quite correct, at that. If it gets into a satisfactory basis at all, it'll be doing it for the first time in history. The urgent necessity for reorganization is widely recognized, however, except as to the dark continent, which has pretty much escaped consideration until just now.

Belatedly, though, it's beginning to break a bit into the news, mainly through the activity of what's known as the Committee on Africa, under the chairmanship of Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, as a detail of studies inspired by the Phelps Stokes Fund.

Apparently Africa's case attracted attention as a by-product of an analysis of President Roosevelt's and Winston Churchill's Atlantic Charter, drafted with more of a view to international relationships, after the present conflict, than ever has existed before.

Presumably F. D. R. and Winston didn't consider it necessary particularly to emphasize the inclusion of Africa's population with the rest of the globe's.

Subsequent discussion of plans for making the Charter effective, furthermore, has pretty completely ignored the Africans. The Americans, Europe, Asia, the Australian continent and neighboring islands all have been taken duly into account, but Africa's been almost wholly overlooked until the Phelps-Stokes committee began speaking for its inhabitants very recently.

The committee seems unenthusiastic over the idea of setting 'em up as a group of independent nationalities, frankly, recognizing that the conflicting nationality system has been badly discredited of late.

Yet it opposes holding the Africas in a state of subjection to foreign rulership. Self-government is its recommendation.

It deems 'em entitled to it, in honor, as per the Atlantic Charter. It believes that they can manage their own affairs, more efficiently, prosperously and peaceably, locally, than it can be done from the outside.

It also reckons that it's desirable to end foreign countries' quarrelling between themselves over their respective African colonies.

Then there's another item—of lively interest here in the U. S. A. The dark races have been coming into their own.

The yellow races (the Mongolians) have scored. The Chinese are our allies. The Japs are not, but we acknowledge 'em as formidable. The browns (Malays), in India, aren't to be sneezed at. They not only fight but likewise are intellectual and spiritual.

Now, wouldn't Ethiopians, being equally well worth while human beings if given a chance, score as well as any of the rest of us?

If the colonial natives want independence, now's the time for 'em to bid for it.

Man About Manhattan

Make-Believe Blitz

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — The terrifying whistle of the incendiaries falling about them, the raucous racket of ack-ack, and the comforting sound of the "all clear" are old hat to Gladys Cooper, Rhys Williams, Brenda Forbes and Jill Esmond. This quartet of English actors, currently portraying the roles of embattled Londoners in "The Morning Star," Emlyn Williams' play about the Battle of Britain, know all about the sound and the fury although they were happily far removed from their native city when the Luftwaffe struck.

Last year they were together in the film version of "This Above All." Like "Morning Star," it dealt with England under fire. Oddly enough Gladys Cooper, Brenda Forbes, Jill Esmond and Rhys Williams didn't realize they had played together in the same picture until Guthrie McClintic's press department dug up the strange fact, it semes that movies are shot episodically in quick takes, and the four never were called together on the same set. Each of their roles was so fleeting that they had no reason to remember their colleagues were also in the cast. Incidentally Brenda Forbes and Rhys Williams also went through a blitzing in "Mrs. Miniver," and, like England, they can take it.

RHYS WILLIAMS, who plays a Welshman, as he did in Emlyn Williams great hit of two years ago, "The Corn Is Green," explains that the blitz is much more terrifying on stage than on the scene. In pictures the explosion of bombs is dubbed in afterwards. The actors never hear them until they see the finished product. The director motions them when to duck a bomb or hold their ears.

One of the reasons for "Morning Star's" great hopes in New York is because, (1), it is by Emlyn Williams, who is well liked on Broadway, and, (2), the play has already 300 performances behind it in London. This gives Londoners the opportunity to see and laugh at themselves under fire, and New Yorkers are wondering how they would behave under similar circumstances, especialy as it is entirely possible for bombs to begin raining down in Manhattan.

INCIDENTALLY, Dorothy Gish, who with Louis Calhern has been wowing New York as Mr. and Mrs. Day ("Life With Father") is a baseball fan, and for a most unusual reason. She simply cannot get over umpires.

"Watching an ump," says Miss G., "is like watching a ballet. Everything they do is so stylized. Their motions seldom vary. When the players bulge out their necks and shake their fists in each other's faces it is perfect pantomime."

Dot got to be a fan in a peculiar manner. At her first game the activities deteriorated into one of those general brawls where everybody is swinging but nobody gets hurt. It focused her attention on the umps, and made her want to see more baseball, which again is odd because Miss G. can't use prize fights at all.

That All-In Feeling

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DO YOU wake up with that groggy feeling?
Do you drag yourself through the day half alive?
Have you lost your old interest in things in general?
Do you feel that your life's a flop?

No, this isn't an ad for a patent medicine panacea. Nor is it a build-up for a new vitamin diet. It's a perfectly sane and serious query concerning that most ancient of all human ailments—that all-in feeling. For whether you believe it or not these periods of disgust and despair are as old as Adam. They come to all of us and there's only one person on earth who can cure you of them—YOURSELF.

Queer business, Life. You think of it as a continuous process which should go on without a hitch. And if it doesn't, there must be something wrong with your program or environment or the human frame-up. But life isn't a continuous, streamlined performance even for the most powerful and successful. Life comes in tides, in waves and periods of growth. And in between its surges of energy there are bleak hours, days and months of ebb and inaction. And the higher you swing when the flood is on, the lower you ebb when the tide shifts.

You'll never understand yourself or the world in which you live until you get hep to this fact. Boredom is as natural as ecstasy; inertia is as inevitable as ambition, and no human being can escape this natural law. So what can you do about it?

First of all, stop thinking that it's your particular private bad luck to feel down in the dumps. Realize that that big, grinning fellow who sits next to you in the office, that smartly dressed, friendly woman who lives in the next apartment, have their moments of grim let-down just as often as you. Moments when they too stare bleak-eyed into the future and feel that the game is up.

Yet they carry on, not because they are particularly heroic or intelligent but because Life itself always returns and will lift you once again to the shining top of new adventure, if you are willing to be lifted.

If you're willing! But there's the joker in Life's little scheme. She'll do no lifting unless and until you are ready and willing to take the boost. And that's the toughest test we have to face, the mere fact of being willing to go on with Life and take the luck she has to offer.

Sounds screwy, doesn't it? You'd think that everyone would be eager to shake the blues and make a fresh start. But it isn't as easy as that. There's something very insidious about that all-in feeling . . . something that creeps up on you without your knowledge. For it's so much easier to be down instead of up . . . flop instead of to fly. It's a wonderful way to escape responsibility and duck challenge and criticism. It's a magnificent alibi for weakness, selfishness and fear.

THE EASIEST WORDS TO SAY ARE, "I'M A FAILURE."

But if you are, neighbor it's 99 per cent your own fault. No matter how hard you've been shoved around or how bitterly hurt in the process, one thing is always true. The tide will turn. You can always turn with it, if you're willing to crawl out of the driftwood and the seaweed.

Defense of Stalingrad Sets Back Plans for Progress In Caucasus

—By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER

LAST THURSDAY, when things were looking black for the Russians in the never-ending crisis of the battle for Stalingrad, a high ranking soldier told me that despite the gravity of the position he still believed the Reds would hold the city.

This was a declaration calling for great faith. Field Marshal von Bock was pouring his men into the sacrificial fire with that utter disregard for life which characterizes Prussian militarism. The Germans had battered their way forward so far in places that their blood was spilling into the waters of the Volga.

My military friend was an optimist. Still as this is being written, almost a week later, the unbelievable Reds continue to hold and counter-attack in the face of superior numbers.

Maybe my friend is not only an optimist but a major prophet. However, I have the notion he would agree that so far as the siege of Stalingrad is concerned, it's still in a state of flux.

Yet in its broadest sense, the battle of Stalingrad already is finished. The question of who succeeds in hanging onto the shattered remains of the city isn't a matter of major importance, for the Germans already have done their damnedest in knocking out this strategic base.

What counts is that Hitler's program for conquest of the Caucasus has been grievously delayed. And of even greater importance is the fact that he has failed in an imperative objective—the shattering of that magnificent Red line.

The Nazi chief had planned—perhaps still plans—to steamroller his way into the oil fields of Trans-Caucasia. Daily his prospects of doing that grow less, for the fall rains already are falling to signal the approach of winter. True, war can be waged in the Caucasus in wintertime, but Hitler would seem to face a titanic task in shattering the Red defenses along the Caucasus range before bad weather.

Despite this I don't think we are yet in position to sign off the Hitlerian offensive for the season. We must wait to see what October producs.

Crisis Near In Port Moresby Area

—By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER

THE THREAT to Port Moresby remains the outstanding bad spot in the general picture of the war, although the danger is recognized and is being prepared for.

In the Solomons, tension is approaching a crisis. The Japanese are showing healthy respect for the reinforcements we are building up there to meet their attack. When it comes, both offensive and defensive operations will be on the slugging scale and the outcome will be of tremendous importance in determining future mastery of the southwestern Pacific.

Elsewhere, in the long view, things look somewhat brighter. The issue at Stalingrad remains undecided, it is true, but the effect of this greatest battle of history on Hitler's general strategy can no longer be argued away in Berlin or anywhere else. No propaganda can gloss over the fact that in the face of worsening weather conditions and a prospective early winter, Hitler has not completed his Volga campaign on schedule. He most certainly has not crushed either the fighting power of the Russian forces or the will-to-resistance of the Russian people.

Signs from many points indicate that Hitler is more and more going over to the defensive mentality. That requires on the part of the United Nations an aggressive spirit that grows in proportion.

The courage and performance of American men and machines thus far matches the best tradition of this country in any of its wars. And it reveals that we possess the extra drive, daring and sheer technical efficiency which war today requires in such degree as to make the 1914-1918 struggle look like a tilting match.

Recent declarations by leaders in our war effort have made it perfectly clear that if our momentum is to be maintained, the home front of production and supply, of awareness of what this war is going to cost us in goods and flood, must keep pace with the men who are doing the fighting.

With the second-front issue coming perilously close to a squabble at times, with Moscow charging political reasons behind our failure to open it, and the certainty that it is not going to be opened until American and British tacticians say we are ready to do it successfully, the remarks of Brig. Gen. Ira C. Eaker become important.

General Eaker is quoted as strongly supporting that group which believes that Germany can be destroyed from the air. There still is an impressive number of "ground men" who contend that Germany can really be whipped only in the field.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Capital dilemma: What happens when a big committee goes out of business?

Specifically, what happens now that the rubber investigating committee, composed of Bernard Baruch, Dr. James B. Conant and Dr. Karl T. Compton, has gone out of business? I don't mean what happens AS A RESULT of the committee report? That's up to the President, to Nelson, to Henderson, Ickes, Jesse Jones, congress and others. I mean, what happens to the committee and its reports?

ALMOST before the ink was dry on the President's order setting up the rubber investigating committee, Baruch, Conant and Compton were holding outdoor conferences in Lafayette Park across from the White House.

Less than five weeks later, Baruch, Conant and Compton had dropped their bombshell in the President's White House office. Within 24 hours, the three musketeers of investigation had folded their tents and gone home.

In that five weeks, their offices had spread from a split-slat park bench to a whole floor of that La Salle building—a floor big enough to house a battery of bowling alleys. Their staff had expanded from a Negro shoeshine boy to stenographers, clerks, secretaries, scientists, engineers, financiers. Their files started with notes on the back of an envelope, from a pocket of one of Baruch's natty summer suits. You should see them now.

For instance, take that minor paragraph early in the report: Crude rubber on hand, July 1—578,000 tons; estimated imports, July 1, 1942 to Jan. 1, 1944—53,000 tons; estimated military needs for the same period, exclusive of any tires for passenger cars, 842,000 tons; deficit to Jan. 1, 1944—211,000 tons.

You don't get figures like that merely by ringing a telephone number and saying, "Hi, Butch, what's cooking?"

A DIGEST of the report alone took up eight solid columns of newspaper print. And there are few paragraphs in it that aren't backed by reams of details from experts, scientists, engineers and factual government reporting agencies.

Imagine the pages that had to be read, facts reviewed, and experts heard to cut through all the blubber about Buna-S, neoprene, and Thiokol. Yet the committee did it and laid their digest on the line in five weeks (which, as one member put it, was still six months late).

The clerks, stenographers, etc., have followed the three committee members in deserting the La Salle building. The files of the committee and Sam Lubell, secretary to the committee, are still there.

The work of acting on the committee report is now under way. Those files may be vital in working out the laws and executive orders which will save us from a catastrophic rubber shortage. Somebody who knows them has to be on hand to see that the right ones fall into the hands of the right people.

Long Range Farming.

A farmer we know has approximately a dozen children and roundly 20 0acres of unproductive land. This is a situation to tax the resourcefulness of any man.

Some years ago he planted a part of hi sacres in various kinds of evergreen trees. Now he sells enough Christmas trees each year to make them his big money crop and has enough left to produce timber which will turn in a big profit a few years later.

There is a lesson here for the owners of millions of acres of non-producing land throughout Ohio.

The man who plants trees must have vision. If he is content to wait for his crop to bring a profit, nothing he can plant will bring a better return for such little labor from land which now brings in no revenue.—Canton Repository.

A Farmer's Diary

Airborne

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WALKED among the dogwoods on the slope above our cottage. Tight set clumps of bright red berries glisten along the terminal twigs of last year's wood. They rival the beauty of holly or the perfect berries of the Canadian yew. The dogwood leaves are changing rapidly, and birds flit in and out, tempted by the promise of fleshy appetizing fruit, to scatter the dogwood progeny across the hills.

The dogwoods looked satisfied. The year's labor for them is finished. The essential starch and sugar for another year is stored away and on the new growth are borne grayish green buttons with soft tender coverings. Through these, next spring, the magic surge of life will flow. In due time, the old will slough away and be scattered—the new will begin another season.

I stopped upon the hilltop and watched a colony of ripened thistle heads disperse. One by one the individual, winged seeds rose from the common pod, and sailed up and away until their soft whited rays were lost to sight. Then came goldfinches, a dozen strong, and tore with feet and beaks at the downy heads until the earth near about was flaked with white, and the air was full of flying thistledown.

Wild cotton pods have opened their pointed, hard-shelled cases. Soft silken threads are bursting out beneath. Wider and wider these openings will become, as sun and wind dries out the moisture, and each flat brown seed becomes an individual with white flowing tresses, to float away high on the autumn breeze. Some travel a thousand miles. Some drop into streams and are borne the length of continents. Some float on ebbing ocean tides and reach the shores of other lands.

Not only plants but insects claim the airways for producing and broadcasting their progeny. I saw a canker worm airborne on what seemed to me an invisible thread. Its web must have been very long for it undulated by the force of the upper air. And balloonist spiders are taking off constantly now, from the tops of trees or fences—supported by long streamers of tiny, self made threads—caught and borne up by the wind, with wriggling acrobatics that seem to tell of joy and confidence.

Air Thriller.

The incredible feats of Britain's fleet air arm are graphically illustrated in "Ships With Wings," the Madison attraction opening today. John Clements and Leslie Banks are co-starred in the picture that tells the gripping story of a lady-killing pilot cashiered from service and his ultimate come-back to battle the Germans. Romance is also woven into the film by Jane Baxter and Ann Todd. "Escape From Crime" is the second attraction.

Wartime Story.

"This Was Paris," featuring Ann Dvorak and Ben Lyon is showing at the Ritz. Adventure in occupied Paris is the theme. The second picture, "Who Is Hope Schuyler?" presents Mary Howard and Shelia Ryan.

Western Drama.

"The Phantom Plainsman," opening Thursday at the Park, presents the Three Mesquiteers in a wartime story revolving around an old rancher, who unwittingly is selling his horses to an enemy agent for shipment abroad. Bob Steele, Tom Tyler and Rufe Davis furnish the thrills, and Lois Collier supplies the romance. "The Miracle Kid," the co-feature, has Tom Neal and Carol Hughes in a story dealing with beauty and boxing.

CLUB PLAQUE AWARDED TO SCHOOL GARDENERS

Presentation of Brinkerhoff Garden Club Prize Made At West Fifth P. T. A. Meeting; Cash Awards Also Given.

FOR THE THIRD successive year, the West Fifth Street school has won the Brinkerhoff Garden club award for school gardens. Mrs. A. M. Colby presented the plaque to the school for its permanent possession at last night's meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the school. W. W. Blauser, principal, accepted the plaque. Preceding the presentation, Mrs. Colby spoke of interesting school gardens in Mansfield and of the perseverance and quality of the West Fifth Street school gardeners and gardens.

The meeting in the club room was in charge of Mrs. R. Zaebst, retiring president. Because of the resignations of Ralph Earnest, president, and Mrs. James Brownscombe, secretary, the association elected John Grohol and Mrs. G. Hart to those offices.

Mrs. Hoyt Blayney, Mrs. G. Grohol and Mrs. Ralph Earnest were elected to represent the West Fifth Street school on the Mansfield Council of Parents and Teachers. Delegates to the state P. T. A. convention which will be held in Akron on Oct. 14, 15 and 16, will be appointed by the new president. Installation of officers will be held at the next meeting.

Last night's program was in charge of Mrs. G. Weller, chairman of the school gardens. Flowers, vegetables, decorative gourds and canned vegetables arranged in a "V" made an attractive table display. Bob and Don Hart arranged a miniature design of their garden—a golden eagle of marigolds with a background of blue Chinese forget-me-nots and petunias.

As Mrs. Weller presented the certificates to the children, they told something of interest about their victory gardens. Twenty-nine youngsters started gardens, all of which were completed. One dollar prizes were awarded to Don and Bob Hart, Bob Ackerman, June Zaebst, Nancy Grohol, Rebecca Flockerzie, Donald Bradley and Betsy Weller. The following received honorable mention: Douglas Black, Dick and John Bishop, La Verne Oney, Peggy Rust, Malcolm Umbarger, Carol Hamman, Wilson McLean, Margaret Reed, Milka George and Boris George.

Awards of 25 cents were given to Carol Merrell, Despina Nickas, Francis Schisler, Patricia Mitchell, Juanita Danals, Glen Danals, Alice Brownscombe, Shirley Szirahi, Margaret Stull and Lucille Hamilton.

Mrs. Julia Kiene To Discuss Meat At Club Meeting

Meat, the subject of vital interest in two general methods of cooking maker because of impending rationing, will be the subject of Mrs. Julia Kiene's Health for Victory club program tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the Westinghouse auditorium. In this second meeting on the important meat subject, the Home Economics head will discuss and demonstrate the two general mathods of cooking meat—with dry heat and with moist heat.

The subject of meat is too big and too important to cover in one meeting, Mrs. Kiene explained in discussing tomorrow's meeting. "At last months meeting we emphasized the "how to buy" information on meat describing each cut of meat by the use of charts and actual cuts," she declared. Tomorrow we are going to demonstrate "how to cook" methods which comes under the two general classifications of dry heat and moist heat.

Mrs. Kiene feels that Thursday's Health for Victory meeting is one that every conscientious war homemaker cannot afford to miss. It is opportune and of tremendous interest because of the nutritional value of meat. She believes this program is one of the most practical of any of the Health for Victory meetings yet to be held. Mrs. Kiene hopes that every member will attend. New Menu-Guides, full of brand new menus and recipes for October will be distributed at this meeting.

The regent, Miss Marie Kalbfleisch, conducted a short business meeting during which the circle voted to buy four Series F war bonds, amounting to $296. The Norwalk circle extended an invitation to attend initiation and dinner Sept. 30. The next business meeting will follow a covered-dish dinner at 6:30 p. m. Officers will be elected. BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

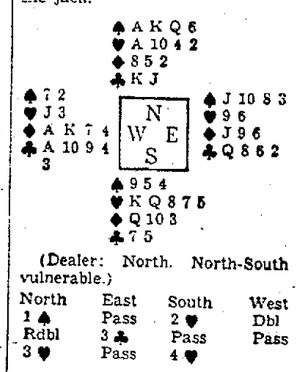
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HELP HIM GUESS

There are frequent spots, during the play of a hand, when you have a chance to make the work of your opponent easier for him, by saving him the necessity of guessing the location of some important card. Playing it yourself at the first opportunity solves the problem for him, whereas holding it back may give him a terrific worry as to whether it is held by you or your partner. This is emphatically so when a declarer leads toward a king-jack in the dummy. If the ace goes on his lead, he has no guess remaining, but if you play a low card, he doesn't know surely whether to come up with the king, or put on the jack.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Dbl
Rdbl	3 ♣	Pass	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

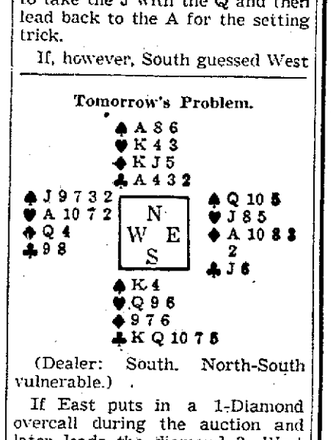
South took the third diamond trick, three hearts and three spades, then ruffed the spade 6 with his heart 8, leaving a trump in each hand and also two clubs in each. With two tricks already lost, he could afford to lose only one more, and had to take two. One of those two was certain as a trump trick, but the other had to be a club.

So he led the club 7 toward the K-J. West came right in with his A, making the K good for the trick that assured success of the contract.

If West had played the club 10, declarer would have had a puzzle. He would have had to guess whether East or West had the A. If he guessed West had the Q and East the A, his best play would have been the J to force the A and make the K good. As the cards lie, that play would have beaten him. It would have enabled East to take the J with the Q and then lead back to the A for the setting trick.

If, however, South guessed West for the A and came up with the K, only to find that East had the A, the K would have been killed and West would have taken the setting trick then with the Q. The A was by no means marked in the hand of West, who had made a shaded double anyway. East's free bid of clubs over North's redouble might have marked the A, as there. But, when West played his A on the first club lead, no problem remained.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If East puts in a 1-Diamond overcall during the auction and later leads the diamond 3, West putting on the Q, how should North play for 3-No Trumps?

CAPUDINE

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Say that last—again—slowly!"

This command from Lillian—her first words since I began to tell of Carolyn's perfidy—came in raucous gasps, and her face was ashen.

Watching her closely I had seen the color recede from her cheeks, and her eyes change from live anger to dull despair.

It was plain that I had won my battle to convince her that Carolyn had duped her, but I felt this was a sorry victory if it caused such anguish to my friend's spirit. Yet I knew there must be no faltering, no turning back, in what I had to do.

Clue To Marion.

"We are sure that Marion went away to shield Carolyn," I repeated slowly.

"From—what?" she asked, still in a raucous monotone.

"If we only knew that, dear girl," I said, "we would have another vital clue to the discovery of Marion. But I think a clue may lie in the one thing I have not yet told you—something which Carolyn said, which you must not believe for a single second, because Father and I are both convinced it is the blackest of lies."

From between her stiff lips came the whispered words:

"Tell me!"

I spurred my courage to utter the searing words.

"Carolyn told me Marion had gone away with a man, and was going to marry him," I said at last.

I thought she was going to spring from her chair, but she sank back. Then she put a question in what I guessed was a last, despairing attempt to defend her daughter's "roomie."

Clings To Her Faith.

"You know Marion wrote that to Ronald and to me. Could she not have written it to Carolyn also, and Carolyn could not read between the lines?"

"Not a chance in the world," I told her. "We were pressing her very hard, and showing that we believed nothing she said. If she had had a letter from Marion telling her that, I am certain she would have shown it to us. No, she simply concocted that lie, as she did others, in her desperate attempt to get away from us."

"She is desperate, then?" she inquired, after another silence, and there was a distinct change from the raucous monotone of her voice. I saw that her keen intelligence was beginning to work again.

"Oh, most certainly," I said. "But to do her justice, Lillian, I believe she is obsessed by unknown terror of that 'collegiate gangster.' If you could have seen her when he talked to her, while she was in our car, just before the police car siren drove him away, you would know what I mean.

Hypnotized By Fear.

"She was like a bird responding to the hypnotic compulsion of a snake. She was desperately afraid to go with him, for I think she had just realized that he was a gangster, but more afraid of what he might do if she did not.

"She said it would be the end of everything for herself and Marion, too, if she did not obey him. And if you could have seen the incarnated evil in the faces of both those men, you would have seen, as we did, that to let Carolyn get into their power would have meant a fatal blow to our hopes for rescuing Marion."

Lillian's face was quivering now, and she held out her hands to me in tremulous appeal.

"Your father is right," she said bitterly. "I cannot be trusted to think or act sanely in this crisis."

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Sept. 24.

Some high pressure activities, of an unique or spectacular nature, may materialize under the peculiar and vivid astral operations. The energies and emotions may be keyed up to high nervous tension, probably with the purpose of putting over a major proposition or program. This should have the support and encouragement of superiors, employers or those in financial standing. But there may be an undercurrent of subtlety and fraud to guard against.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of unusual activity and excitement, probably of an extraordinary, sensational or unpredictable nature in which the energies and spirits as well as the forces and faculties may be keyed up to concert pitch. Be ever alert to machinations, betrayals, loss or fraud where least expected.

A child born on this day may possess excellent creative abilities and energies, with originality, initiative and aggressive purpose. But it may be a victim of fraud.

Massillon Continues to Set High School Grid Pace

Sport Podge by REX HESS

High school football teams shouldn't be expected to show too well in the first game of the season, but the chorus of disappointment which has gone up over the territory represented on Mansfield high school's grid schedule is nothing less than amazing.

Winners and losers join in the chorus, and in places it reaches such an uproar that you are forced to wonder whether this is a game played by kids, against kids, or the defense of Stalingrad.

Let's look over the scores of last Friday night—and the press reaction.

Elyria 8, Oberlin 6—Elyria Chronicle Telegram: The Pioneers victory in the inaugural was far from being impressive, and certainly shouldn't be the reason for any great exulting on the part of the Crimson team and its followers.

Sandusky 0, Collinwood 19—Sandusky Register-Star-News: Sandusky has promise of developing, but many long hours of toiling in fundamentals, pass offense and defense, and work in general must be spent before a smooth performance can be expected.

Niles 0, Youngstown Chaney 24—Niles Daily Times: The Niles high eleven went down to a 24-0 thrashing before a strong Chaney squad of "Blitzballers" who scored four markers with a strong running and passing attack.

Springfield 0, Cincinnati Western Hills 7—Springfield News: The Wildcats outgained the visitors, chalking up 10 first downs to Western Hills six, but the Maroons had the punch when it counted, while Springfield was never able to get its offensive under way as it should have been. There were occasions when the Wildcats looked like a high-class ball club, but they suffered relapses just when it appeared that the fireworks were about to break loose.

Massillon 38, Cathedral Latin 0—No moans from Massillon. The Massillon Independent was well pleased with the entire proceeding, but the Canton Repository complained: The Tiger line surprised almost everyone with its smashing play, but Massillon's backfield on the other hand wasn't up to par. It didn't show the speed of last year's eleven, the passing wasn't too good, and the team as a whole was off on its timing.

Portsmouth 19, Akron South 14—Portsmouth Times: Although pleased with the victory, the Trojan coaching staff is well aware that the team is not the smooth-working combination that must be turned out in order to compete on even terms with Dayton Roosevelt, Springfield, Huntington East, Middletown and Mansfield.

Canton McKinley 33, Canton Timken 0—Canton Repository: McKinley's line, defensively, did not measure up to expectations, especially in the last half when Timken outcharged and outmaneuvered the Bulldogs. Offensively the Bulldogs evidenced real power. The blocking was spotty at times but in the first half McKinley opened gaping holes in Timken's line. The ball-handling in the backfield needs considerable polishing and the passing will have to be speeded up.

Toledo Woodward 6, Toledo Libby 24—Toledo Blade: Libbey had little trouble beating Woodward, once it got started. The Cowboys registered 15 first downs against five for the Bears.

Cardinals Edge Near Pennant

Need Three Victories To Clinch Loop Title.

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE St. Louis Cardinals look like they're just a deep breath and a loud sneeze away from the National league pennant now, and it's probably just as well for the cardiac condition and the nervous systems of Gus Q. Fan and the kiddies that it's almost over.

It's not that this is the closest race in history, mind you, because some of those senior circuit chases have been as tight as a new pair of shoes after a 12-mile hike. But in this year's stretch drive, the Cardinals and the second-place Brooklyn Bums are specializing in seeing who can raise more lumps in the most throats in every game.

Each time they go to the post, both outfits are keeping everyone—including themselves—in suspense from start to finish before making up their minds either to pull a game out of the fire or blow it.

On Monday, for instance, the Cards had to go nine innings before they decided to knock over the Pirates. The same day, the Dodgers got enough runs in the first inning to flail the Phillies, but in every frame from there right down to the wire they were in hot water.

And yesterday it was the same thing, although St. Louis didn't let it last as long this time before pounding the Pirates 9-3 to remain 2½ games up in the pennant race. The Birds now need only three victories or three Dodger losses to cinch the flag

The Bums had to come from behind three times yesterday against the Giants, and then Dolph Camilli had to clout his 25th homer out of the ball park in the 12th inning to win the game 9-8.

There were some more fireworks after the game. Bill Klem, the old arbiter who used to be the loop's most feared umpire, got into a row with Brooklyn Prexy Larry MacPhail. The argument started over a strike Umpire Al Barlick called on Dolph Camilli in a game a full ten days ago, and in the course of his "rebuttal" old Uncle Bill referred to red-headed Larry as a "big guy when you're winning," among other things.

Pitching dominated the action elsewhere in the big leagues. Paul Derringer and Johnny Vander Meer served up a five-hitter and a three-hitter, respectively, and the Cincinnati Reds rolled over the Chicago Cubs twice by scores of 4-1. It was no trick at all for the New York Yankees to take a 3-1 decision from the Senators behind Atley Donald's five-hit elbowing. Dizzy Trout tossed a six-hitter as Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox 9-2.

Rams Work on More Plays

Used Only Five Against New London Last Week.

Coach Al Fendrick of the Madison high school football Rams declared today he was very happy that the schedule gives his athletes an open date this week.

"Our next game with Orrville here a week from Friday night looms as the big game of the season on our home state," Fendrick said. "We didn't play Orrville last year but they beat us the two seasons before, and we expect them to be just as tough as ever."

Fendrick was not overly enthused by the fact that Orrville barely squeezed out a 6-0 victory over Coventry in the opening game last week. "Coventry is reported to have one of its better teams this season," Al said.

"We need a lo of work on new plays, and also in speeding up our downfield blocking. We used only five plays in defeating New London last week, but we'll need more than that against Orrville."

Fendrick reported a sudden interest in the gridiron sport out at Madison. Last spring Al had a promising bunch of freshmen working out, but they were strangely missing when the practice season opened this fall. Within the past week most of them have reported, and Fendrick hopes to develop some backfield replacements from them, including Eckels, Strang, Stoner, Miller and Thomas.

Fendrick also announced two games scheduled for his reserve team against Johnny Appleseed junior high Oct. 7, and John Simpson junior high Oct. 21.

These Stars Perform In College Games This Week

HERMAN FRICKEY, Minnesota back — TOM KUZMA, Michigan back — GEORGE SLUSSER, Ohio State back — DAVE SCHREINER, Wisconsin end

Among the outstanding grid attractions in the midwest Saturday, Sept. 26, are those pitting the service elevens, Great Lakes against Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich., and Fort Knox at Ohio State and the meetings of Notre Dame and Wisconsin at Madison, Wis., and Pittsburgh at Minnesota. Wisconsin opened with a 7-0 win over Camp Grant, Sept. 19.

Officials Roll In Tire Opener

Stephens and Ober Help Lift Kegling Curtain.

An extra added attraction from the front office highlighted opening night ceremonies in the Mansfield Tire bowling league last evening at Colony alleys when George W. Stephens, president and general manager, and Phillip H. Ober, vice president and assistant general manager of the company tangled in a $20 side bet on most pins on the first ball to hit the maples. Gutter balls didn't count.

Ober picked up six pins on his first ball, while Stephens, after tossing two in the gutter, finally connected for three pins.

Bill Fenn took top scoring honors for the evening with a 573 total on games of 183-200-190. J. Leathers, after starting out with a 127, wound up with a 243 which was high game.

Birds and Chiefs Open Little Series

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A pair of baseball clubs that finished the regular season in third place then crushed opponents in straight games in playoff finals—the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association and the Syracuse chiefs of the International league—clash tomorrow night in the "Little World Series."

President George Trautman of the Association today announced a best four-out-of-seven game schedule designed to give the players the biggest possible slice of the box office take.

The teams will play two games here, travel Saturday and open a three-game series at Syracuse Sunday afternoon. If additional contests are necessary, they will return to Columbus.

PLAYS FOR IRISH

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP)—Bob McBride of Lancaster, O., has been promoted to the left guard position on Notre Dame's first string football team.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Lou Smith, whose innovations at Rockingham park included that 15-race program for war relief last spring, has come up with a new one for the fall meeting. . . . He has asked every horse-breeder in the United States to contribute one weanling, yearling or even a two-year-old that could be spared to be "sold" to war bond buyers at Rock. . . . Lou probably expected to get more "steak" horses than stake horses, and they might be a good buy, too, these days—so you can imagine his surprise when the first reply came in from Emerson (Valdina) Woodward of Texas, offering a yearling sired by Bahram, the $250,000 English horse. . . . Incidentally, racing men have made themselves look very good with such contributions to the war effort as the seven-day post-season meeting at Belmont, Churchill Downs' victory days and turning their most profitable events into relief programs.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News, "Baseball men who expect to operate next season must come to the realization that it must be a case of baseball for the nation's sake and not for profit."

Injured Bucks Back In Action

White, Horvath Return For Opening Contest.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Coach Paul Brown put away the adhesive tape and the ointment today and breathed a sigh of relief as two of his three injured men returned to the Ohio State University lineup.

Big John White, gangling stringbean of a boy who has been out most of the season with a separated shoulder muscle, and Les Horvath, 160-pound halfback and a Buckeye question mark, suited out yesterday as the Bucks went through a tough goal line defense drill.

Ken Coleman, lanky center, still is not able to run through drills and may be out for a long time with a trick knee.

The Bucks, outweighed approximately 20 pounds to the man by their season opener opponents Fort Knox, worked hard on goal line stands as first word of the armor-raider delegation reached OSU.

A probable Fort Knox starting lineup was submitted to the Bucks yesterday.

All-American John Moody, colored star from Morris Brown college, will be expected to play 60 full minutes from Fort Knox. A husky 212 pounder, Moody fills the fullback post

Sam Putterbaugh, former Cleveland Rams' quarterback, will call the signals and John Sprida, former St. Anselm's College of Washington star, and Jim Fenton will hold down the halfback spots.

Dwight Reed, colored Minnesota ace, and Ray Rupelli, Holy Cross star, will start as ends.

At the Fort Knox tackle positions will be Sam Taylor and Frank Lopp, former Wisconsin star. Rudolph Hodulik of West Virginia Tech and Glenn Knauss, 220-pounder from Charleston, Ill., will start at guard posts.

George Rimmer, former Xavier University player, will do the ball snapping for the soldiers.

Colts Battle In Delaware Feature

DELAWARE, O. —(AP)— Three sensational two-year-olds—Adios Widows Pride and Kings Counsel—battle in the $2,500 pacing stake at the Delaware Grand Circuit meeting today.

Adios, owned by Thomas Thomas, holds the record of 2:08¼ for twice around a half-mile track, but a tight race is expected since Vic Fleming's Widows Pride and Hugh M. (Doc) Parshall's Kings Counsel have bested the Thomas entry previously.

Saratoga, bay colt owned by L T. Gustin of Holicong, Pa., and driven by Pal Vineyard, fought off a strong bid by Henry Volo in winning the $5,000 Bar Scioto pacing stake, feature of yesterday's inaugural card.

Wilmington, owned by J. E. Kelley of Bangor, Me., won the $950 consolation race for eliminated horses.

Worthy Boy, gelding by Colomite-Warwell Worthy, captured the $2,500 two-year-old trot in straight heats; the Colonel, brown gelding by San Guy-Little Mary, took the $500 24 class pace, and He Can Trot won the $500 24 trot.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Undefeated Eleven of 1941 Come Through

Mansfield Tygers Stay Up In Race For State Football Prestige

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Those terrific Tigers of Massillon high school, unbeaten by an Ohio team since 1934, and defeated but once in their last 70 games (7-0 by New Castle, Pa.) in 1937, are off on another championship spree.

The Tigers have their third coach in as many years, but the changes don't seem to matter. Last week Massillon beat Cleveland Cathedral Latin by 38 to 0 for its 44th in a row without defeat—the victory string married only by last year's 6-6 tie with Mansfield.

Elwood Kammer, junior high coach at Massillon for seven years before taking over the Tiger helm, had his first team out of the game most of the last half. A crowd of 13,500 saw the game, and Massillon made all its touchdowns on the ground, the feature attraction being a 90-yard jaunt by substitute Halfback Tyre Gibson.

While the Massillons were carrying on in traditional style, several other squads which did not taste defeat in 1941 continued down the victory trail. Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home, winner of eight straight last season, when it led the state in scoring with 359 points while not permitting an enemy cleat to touch pay dirt, defeated Mt. Vernon's Yellow Jackets 31 to 0 for the Cadets' 19th in a row.

Toledo Libbey, tied by Martins Ferry last season in a post-season tilt, slugged out a 26-6 win over Toledo Woodward; Mansfield, tied by Massillon and Canton McKinley a year ago, beat Akron West 14 to 6, while Cleveland Lincoln, winner of nine in a row in 1941, nosed out Toledo Scott 6 to 0.

Only Portsmouth East of last year's unsullied group went down in the openers. The River City squad dropped a 13-0 verdict to Washington C. H.

Along with the 90-yard jaunt by Massillon's Gibson, several other long runs were chalked up in the inaugurals. Don Born of Dayton Fairview intercepted a pass and raced 70 yards for his team's only marker in losing to Hamilton by 18 to 6; Wilmington's Charley Hamilton did the same as his mates lost to Xenia by 19 to 6, while John Richardson's 61-yard run helped Chillicothe beat Jackson 19 to 0.

Coach Dana King, after a 13-year absence spent coaching University of Cincinnati teams, and the Cincy Bengals of the American pro league, returned as Hamilton high mentor and watched his scholastic proteges beat Fairview. At Middletown, Coach Elmer Lingrel started his 20th season as Middie mentor, and the boys beat Columbus East 19 to 0.

* * *

The "back of the week" undoubtedly was Jack Bickel, 165-pound Newark lad. The youngster, in the 33-0 conquest over Columbus West, gained 147 yards from scrimmage, was on the end of two forward-laterals which gained 50 yards, returned three punts for 51 yards, scored three touchdowns and plunged for three extra points.

League Has Two Shutouts

Nick Loris Rolls High In Transportation.

Two shutouts were scored in the Transportation bowling league last night at Colony alleys as the Williams team blanked Commercial Motors, and Sons of Herman No 1 did the same to Coolridge golf course.

Nick Loris rolled high total of 562, and high game of 210. Phil Warga had a 206 game, and Desenberg 204.

Pick Yankees In Six Games

Mack Says Pitching Will Decide Series.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— It'll take Joe McCarthy's slugging Yankees six games to capture the World Series from Billy Southworth's St. Louis Cardinals

Mark that opinion down in your little red book carefully, Mr. Fan, because it comes from none other than Connie Mack, that sage and venerable manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. Cornered today at his desk in the tower of Shibe park, Connie forecast.

"This series is going to be a pitching duel, with the batting power of the Yankees the final deciding factor. But it will go six games, because the Cards will give them a tough time."

Connie assumed, of course, that the surprising St. Louis team will maintain their present margin over the hapless Brooklyn Dodgers and win the National League pennant.

PASSING DREAM

CHAPTER II

Temple thought, "Tomorrow I won't be here . . . Tomorrow I won't come home . . . Tomorrow everyone will be a stranger." But, so that they should not see how she felt, she gave them her quick, vital smile.

A few minutes later when she and Harry emerged into the cold Christmas night he said, "I'm staying in with the children tonight, Temple. The Reynolds have some new records. I didn't think you'd mind not going to a movie your last night."

As though she were a child, she thought.

"I don't mind at all. I want to be back early so I can spend a little time with my family . . . on my last night."

He looked down at her and smiled as they walked to the Reynolds new, attractive white cottage where Harry had an apartment on the third floor. The Reynolds were going to a party, she supposed, and Harry had said that there would be no need to keep the maid in and that he would bring her, Temple, back with him.

Dr. Reynolds and Virginia, his wife, were dressed in evening clothes and had their coats on when Temple and Harry entered the cheerful living-room.

"I suppose we'll have to say good-bye to you, Temple," Virginia said as Temple slipped out of her tweed coat. "I don't want to. But Washington is a fascinating place these days, I'm told. No end of new people coming and going. Aren't you excited?"

"I don't really know."

"You'll have a grand time. Well, good-bye, dear." She took Temple's hand and brushed her cheek with her lips.

Dr. Reynolds took her hand also. "You're not the only one who is leaving. Harry will tell you. We're all in for changes. Well, good-bye, Temple, and good luck. Ask Ron and Fran to drop in to see us. I hear they have a fine youngster. I'd like to see him."

The door was closing behind them, shutting out their pleasant, familiar voices.

She looked at Harry who was looking at her. Then he smiled and went to the handsome mahogany phonograph that Virginia had given her husband for Christmas. A second later the music of Tschaikowsky filled the room.

There were two chintz-covered love seats before the burning fireplace. Temple sat in one of them and rested her dark head against a needlepoint pillow. She felt suddenly expectant and excited as she thought, "This was arranged, our being alone on my last night. We've always gone some place before. He's always been so impersonal. I don't know if I like it or not . . ."

Harry was drawing the blinds. Then he came back and sat on the love seat opposite her and looked at her, not from the immeasurable distance from which heretofore he had always looked at her but as though they were quite close, understood each other, and were for the first time equals. His mouth pulled at one corner with secret humor. "Well, tomorrow is the day, isn't it? You're leaving tomorrow." He frowned. "How do you feel about it?"

Temple did not say anything for awhile. She had not told anyone how she felt about leaving home. Then she said, "I suppose I should be ashamed of myself that an opportunity has been created for me and I don't want it. I don't want to leave my family and I know I'm going to hate a boarding house. I'm going to hate not being sure of myself in a job. I tried to get a job here, but there wasn't anything."

She could feel her heart beating fast. She was telling the truth. She, who passionately loved truth, was telling it to the person who had thought least likely ever to hear it from her. She raised her head suddenly and the accustomed wave in her dark hair was disarranged by the gesture. "What did Dr. Reynolds mean? You're leaving, too?"

His eyes were level and calm . . . calm? Oh, no . . . They were not calm at all. They were intense and warm and amused. Warm? Girls in the town who had made neat plans for him had, after he had evaded them, said, "He's as cold as a fish. That explains him!"

He said, holding her eyes on him, "You and I have never been like this before, have we? We've never been strictly alone. You're a very intelligent girl, Temple. I wanted to be alone with you your last night. I emphasize that because if it weren't your last night we'd be at a movie."

She looked at him in complete wonderment and her eyes which seemed always to be asking questions asked them more fervently now.

"I'll get some wine and cigarets," he said.

When he came back, he placed the tray on the coffee table between the love seats and then held a match to her cigaret. He said, "This is almost my last night, too. I'm going in the service. I feel that sooner or later we'll get into the war and I want to be ready for it when we do. I haven't any family, you know. I came up the hard way with my fists. I might have become a professional athlete and made a good deal of money. But I—well, I wanted to keep my eyes and ears intact and I had had enough of physical violence as a kid."

"You've never talked to me like this before."

He chuckled. "Do you wish I had told you before that you're a mixed-up kid with fine feelings you haven't yet discovered, that you're generous, adorable and sweet?"

She laughed, low. "Why, yes, yes, I do."

"It would have put you on the defensive and spoiled everything. As it was I was—"

"You were someone I didn't think about after we said good-night."

He shook his head. "I didn't want you to think about me. Knowing wouldn't have brought us any closer. We'd have come to tonight anyway—you going one way and I another."

* * *

Leaning forward he placed an empty glass on the tray and flicked ashes in a small crystal tray. Then, looking up, he said, "Temple, I have feared you more than any girl I've ever known. But beyond that there's nothing else to say—tonight. The answers that you want to know are probably in Washington, and mine are in the service."

"Yes, perhaps you're right, but you have me more mixed up than ever."

He chuckled again. Then rising he went to the phonograph and stopped the music. When he came back, he paused beside her and lay his hand on her shoulder. It was the most human touch she had ever known. "I'd like to make a date with you five years from now." When she looked up, he smiled down at her. "I'll walk home with you now. The kids are asleep. They'll be all right for that little while."

She was being dismissed, hurried out . . .

They said nothing as they walked across the campus.

"I can't come in," he said as they stood on the porch. Then, taking her shoulders he turned her around to face the lighted houses and the beacon flowing light. "Look at them, Temple. Take one long, last good look. That beacon and those lights in the window of American homes must continue to shine . . . There are some who would call me a ridiculous idealist for saying that, but I don't mind being called an idealist if being one means that I believe that something better will come out of the foul business we'll have to get in. I have nothing but contempt for the people who think that this is the end and that the world is too far gone to be saved.

"The people who say that have never really looked at the world. They have only looked at the material things and the balance in their check books. You see, I have a great deal of faith in the little people of this world who will keep the light of learning shining and the lights in the windows of their homes on Christmas nights to come."

Turning her around to face him, holding her shoulders tightly he said, "So here we go out to find our answers in our own way. Good-bye, Temple."

He walked quickly down the steps and over the campus, his fair head held high.

She entered the house, trembling from the cold and ashamed because she was disappointed that he had not kissed her. More than anything in the world she had wanted him to kiss her.

"Coca-Cola is the answer to thirst that adds refreshment. Your own experience tells you just what to expect. Ice-cold Coke has the happy knack of making thirst a minor matter . . . refreshment your foremost feeling.

"And your own experience will prove this fact: The only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola itself."

★ "I speak for Coca-Cola. I speak for Coke. Both mean the same thing . . . the real thing . . . coming from a single source, and well known to the community".
